

I do not really want to go back to States reform but during the debate on my proposition calling for an elected speaker of the States, the Chief Minister said he would be coming back to the recommendations of the Carswell Review next year, and is that still his intention?

Senator I.J. Gorst:

I am a strong believer in the separation of powers and I have said that when I have been questioned on the election trail. I think I am probably elected despite the comments that I made in that particular regard because equally I fully respect the Bailiff's role as civic head of our community and I got a strong sense from members of the electorate that they held that element of your role, Sir, in extremely high regard and would not want to see that diminished. Therefore, I am left with the position of believing that what we need to do is to start a conversation with our community about how we deliver the separation of powers and yet how, at the same time, we respect the historic role that you currently enjoy, Sir.

The Bailiff:

The final question, I think, from Deputy Hilton.

2.1.40 Deputy J.A. Hilton:

Deputy Doublet asked a very similar question to the one I was going to ask but I have a follow-on question. The protection of children must be of the highest priority. As far as I am aware there is not a law in place which makes it an offence not to report child abuse. How much priority will the Chief Minister place on strengthening our legislation to protect children?

Senator I.J. Gorst:

It is a priority. We need to make sure that the service that we are providing protects and supports children right across our community, and I do not mind being questioned by the Deputy in this regard because I believe that she has played a very important role in her work on Scrutiny in the previous Assembly in seeing some changes in social services, which I believe are going to see important and yet exciting changes in that particular area. So it will continue to be an important priority for me and I believe for whoever is the next Minister for Health and Social Services.

The Bailiff:

That brings questions to the Chief Minister to an end, and indeed it brings the business of this sitting of this Assembly to an end. The Chief Minister, as he said, will be putting forward his nominations for Ministers, and the Assembly will reconvene on Thursday and I think Friday, in order to elect Ministers and the chairmen of the various panels and Scrutiny Panels. The Assembly will reconvene 9.30 a.m. on Thursday.

ADJOURNMENT

APPENDIX

STATEMENT MADE BY SENATOR IAN JOSEPH GORST

INTRODUCTION

In November 2011 when I asked for Members' trust as Chief Minister, I set out the key areas for reform that I saw as essential to build a successful and cohesive community at the heart of Island life:

- Education and training;
- Economic growth and the availability of jobs;
- Provision of affordable homes;
- Enjoyment of good health and;
- Access to a secure retirement.

These priorities all remain as important now as they were three years ago.

Whilst the last Council has made significant progress in these areas, the new Council needs to take these to the next stage. The backdrop of continuing worldwide economic uncertainty remains. The competing demand for enhanced public services needs to be balanced against the limited resources available. Service improvements need to be funded by a co-ordination of efficiencies, savings and economic growth.

DELIVERING JOBS

Whilst it is encouraging that the number of unemployed Islanders has fallen, there are still too many who face the challenges of life without paid employment.

I intend to continue and further strengthen the strategies we have put in place to help people into work.

The Back to Work programme targets those most in need of assistance. We will further add to its effectiveness in providing sustainable job opportunities for locally qualified Islanders by including within its ambit the co-ordination of all government employment schemes, the development of targeted schemes to support locally qualified jobseekers, and the building of partnerships with employers.

I will continue with the financial initiatives put in place to encourage employers to take on the long-term unemployed – the employment grant, Community Jobs Fund and the Youth Incentive have all played their part in moving jobseekers of different ages and skills back into the workplace.

By continuing to listen to and engage with employers and utilising initiatives such as job match, job club and job fest more jobseekers, particularly young people, should be ‘work-ready’ with the skills and attitude to work that will make them valued and permanent recruits.

Considered and targeted training schemes for areas of the economy where demand is picking up – construction and the care sector come to mind – will be key in filling these jobs with those with at least five years’ residence in the Island.

Of course, there will be some in our community who despite the States’ best endeavours, are still reluctant to take up the opportunities on offer and, instead of accepting a ‘hand up’, are still tempted by the notion of a ‘hand out’ I will keep under review the effectiveness of changes already made that have created immediate financial penalties for the minority of benefit claimants who seek to avoid their responsibilities.

In contrast, increasing the earnings disregard for Income Support claimants has incentivised those willing to work and it must be right that this too is kept under review and further increased if possible.

SECURING ECONOMIC GROWTH AND A STRONG RECOVERY

Key to reducing the number of Islanders out of work is a successful economic growth strategy to deliver new jobs. We now have the building blocks in place to encourage innovation, attract quality businesses and maximise local enterprise.

The Jersey Innovation Fund, Enterprise Action Plan and the Financial Services Policy Framework now need to be developed further to create the promised employment opportunities – but this will not be easy.

Enterprise

We are competing with other jurisdictions hungrier for growth from all over the globe. The world of the future is a more competitive one and it is vital Jersey competes effectively in this global challenge for sustainable growth. It is a challenge we cannot afford to lose. We must ensure that our legislation maintains our competitiveness.

Small Business Exemptions

In order to remain aligned to our competitors I will propose pilot exemptions to the Employment Law for small business starting with an extension to the qualifying period for unfair dismissal claims.

We must also ensure that self-employed Social Security contributions are reformed for low earning individuals, encouraging new business start-ups.

Financial Services

We must continue our support for the financial services sector ensuring that existing markets and products are protected, whilst also promoting our services to new markets and developing new products, refining the fund offering, promoting philanthropy and other areas.

The new Tri-partite Partnership with the Government, Industries and the Commission must be maintained.

In addition, the new Memorandum of Understanding with the Jersey Financial Services Commission will underpin this vital relationship.

I will also progress the creation of a new overarching Monetary Authority.

The Digital Opportunity

Technology is and will continue to change all of our lives. Jersey needs not only to respond but to lead in this sector and I propose that this is championed with a new Ministerial focus seizing the opportunities that currently exist for new growth. The development of Digital Jersey and continued investment in Jersey Business will also help to promote new technologies and expansion into niche areas such as Fintech and Cryptocurrencies such as Bitcoin.

Promoting Jersey overseas

The Island will need to continue to raise its international profile, keep and enhance its good reputation and to comply with relevant international standards. Through positive engagement and co-operation, we now have good working relationships with both of our near neighbours. This is not by chance but by acting confidently and dealing with problems when they arise.

All members have a responsibility to promote Jersey internationally, accurately reflecting our economy, our culture and our heritage.

Tourism

I fully support a new tourism Strategy with bold and deliverable targets. The new Visit Jersey body has the opportunity to innovate, raise the profile of the Island and promote Jersey as a year-round event-based tourism destination. I will strongly support event led Tourism with a focus on sport Tourism.

There is no better opportunity to continue the 2014 success with a focus on Tourism in 2015 with the Liberation 70 and 2015 Island Games.

Agriculture and Fisheries

Agriculture and fisheries are important sectors past, present and future. Our farmers have a vital role as custodians of the countryside, saving government money by services such as branchage and keeping Jersey looking beautiful. I will ensure that the financial support government provides is used in a way that supports those in the industry. The new rural economy strategy will be an important milestone, which will have my full support.

EDUCATION

To make sure that our school leavers are best placed to fill the job opportunities that arise, I will be continuing efforts to raise academic standards and vocational opportunities in our schools and colleges. The new Council of Ministers will need to spend considerable time supporting Education. We need to be certain that all our young people are given the best opportunity to reach their full potential.

The Trackers Apprentice Programme is a prime example of the initiatives that must be supported to align training more closely with the available job opportunities. We need to attract our brightest students back to the Island with opportunities in the civil service and a diversified private sector - these are our future leaders with a greater commitment to and understanding of our community.

Partnership with teachers

The recently signed partnership agreement is a positive step forward enabling teachers to be an integral part of education reform.

1001 Days

I support the signing up to the '1001 days programme'. We must remember that early intervention and investment in early years is one of the greatest investments in its future any community can make.

PROMOTING A VIBRANT AND INCLUSIVE COMMUNITY

As Chief Minister I see it as my duty to help create a community where everyone feels valued, is treated fairly, is adequately housed and cared for.

Housing

On an Island such as ours, it is not surprising that we continue to face challenges associated with the supply and affordability of homes. I will be continuing efforts to support first-time buyers, with £250M available for investment in new affordable homes for Islanders. I will support the increase of supply of all forms of tenures. We need to get building, and I'm pleased that building on brownfield sites is now happening. We must continue to work with the construction sector to deal with supply of labour issues.

The wholly States-owned Andium Homes continues its development programme, which aims to generate additional affordable homes for rental and at the same time to refurbish the existing housing stock.

The establishment of the Strategic Housing Unit in the Chief Minister's Department means that housing policy and strategy is fully integrated with the coordinated delivery of social policy and other related plans which impact on housing requirements. I will be closely monitoring the new Residential Tenancy Law which sets out a long-awaited modern framework of rights and responsibilities for both tenants and landlords.

Disabled Services

At the moment the Island's approach to the provision of services for those with a disability is piecemeal. It is essential that all Islanders are afforded an opportunity to participate in Island life. To do this we must adopt a strategy that sets out a cohesive approach to disability.

Discrimination

Ensuring that all members of our community are treated fairly and not subject to discrimination is essential to community well-being. I will continue to support the development of the discrimination law with protection against race discrimination likely to be followed by sex, age and disability legislation. Public consultation will be undertaken at each stage and the phased approach recognises the need to ensure that employers have sufficient time to make any necessary preparations.

HEALTH

Continued access to high-quality healthcare is a pre-requisite for Islanders. We will continue to support Health's plans to redesign services, the focus being on the patient and their best long-term health outcomes, with greater emphasis on community-based support and increased provision for home care services. In addition, rapid response teams will keep hospital stays to a minimum.

Mental health has for too long not received the attention it deserves. I will be supporting plans to update the Mental Health Law and to radically improve the support available for those suffering from mental health issues.

Any mention of health care would be incomplete without mention of the need for the new hospital. I am committed to moving forward with the plans to deliver the new hospital – be it a single or dual site solution. We need to get on with this and I intend to make achieving progress on this one of my top priorities.

REFORMING AND MODERNISING THE PUBLIC SERVICE

Initiatives underway to reform the public service must continue. The vision of e-government needs to become a reality delivering enhanced customer service and easier interaction with States departments. Workforce modernisation continues with a new reward structure underpinned by a new job evaluation scheme currently in development. I am committed to working with the trade union representatives to secure the changes required, while retaining a motivated and dedicated workforce.

We have to continue to change our public service culture. Bureaucracy saps the spirit of the people and the community. By allowing staff to be creative and reviewing the various processes we can improve efficiency and productivity across each department. We must continue to cut and control costs, balancing income and expenditure, following the best independent economic advice provided by the Fiscal Policy Panel.

My experience is that our public servants work incredibly hard with commitment and dedication but with limited resources we need to review whether we are asking them to do the right things.

As part of the redesign of the public sector we must continually work to ensure that departments work in a co-ordinated manner, moving functions as necessary to best serve Islanders. This can achieve increased effectiveness, efficiency and consequent cost savings.

ST HELIER

A priority of the new Council of Ministers should be to restructure the relationship between the States and the Parish of St Helier. There are efficiencies to be achieved, better decision making and a fairer deal for Parishioners.

STRATEGIC PLAN AND MEDIUM TERM FINANCIAL PLAN

A priority of the next Council of Ministers would be to submit to the States Assembly a new Strategic Plan and a new Medium Term Financial Plan 2016-2019.

I have explained some of my priorities for the new Strategic Plan. In terms of the MTFP this needs to retain our fiscal prudence, deliver the investment required by savings, productivity and efficiency improvements together with economic growth – all under the advice of our economic and financial advisers.

STATES REFORM

The electorate has spoken in the referendum to support the retention of the Constables in the States Assembly. The referendum result demonstrates, amongst other things, the importance of our Parish honorary system which I fully recognise and support. I also propose that the necessary law change be brought for debate as soon as possible. I also propose the creation of a “Reform Grand Committee” constituted of Members of the States to carry reform forward. This will be a difficult but necessary process of consultation and consensus building.

I am determined to build the trust of the Public in not only the government of Jersey but also the States of Jersey Assembly.

FULFILLING MY RESPONSIBILITIES AS CHIEF MINISTER

When I stood for election three years ago I stated that it would be an honour and a privilege to serve as Chief Minister. In recent weeks I said it would be an honour and a privilege to serve the community of the Island in this capacity once again.

In my three years as Chief Minister I have sought to demonstrate effective leadership and balanced judgement. At the core of every decision I have made is the desire to act in the best interests of our Island community and this will continue to be my priority if you choose to elect me for another term. I would continue to act with the honesty and integrity that I have demonstrated during my career in the States Assembly.

I have a track record that shows I have a ‘can do’ attitude and that I am not afraid of making difficult and potentially unpopular decisions. I have sought to make the right decisions by combining strong leadership with a consensual approach, which starts with a willingness to consider contrary views and to engage with those with whom I may not always agree.

In making decisions, I strive to take people with me, based on proposals that are sensible, balanced and thoroughly researched. Equally, however, decisions need to be made in a timely manner. It is not an answer to constantly defer.

As Chief Minister I have exhibited a readiness to listen to informed views – whether at the Council of Ministers, at Scrutiny Panels or in the course of debates or questions in the Assembly.

Lively debate and close questioning from Scrutiny are key to the development of successful policy initiatives and, if elected, I will be expecting more than ever to face constructive challenges to proposals put forward by the Council of Ministers. I encourage colleagues to get involved in the Scrutiny process, recognising its key role as a check and balance on the activities of the Council of Ministers. The Island will be better for it. The electorate has little appetite for entrenched views and personalised and introspective debates.

Looking around us, Jersey has strong foundations and is in a good place, but we remain a small island in a challenging world; all of us need to work together to secure our future well-being - Islanders expect no less.

Airport screening for Ebola

Will it make a difference?

David Mabey professor

Stefan Flasche lecturer

W John Edmunds professor, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, London WC1E 7HT, UK

On 9 October the UK government announced that “enhanced screening” for Ebola virus disease will be implemented at Heathrow and Gatwick airports and Eurostar terminals. Details of how this will be done are not yet available, but the objectives presumably are to identify people arriving from Sierra Leone, Guinea, or Liberia who may have been exposed to Ebola, assess whether they have symptoms consistent with Ebola, test those who do, and isolate anyone with positive results.

Several practical difficulties will need to be overcome to achieve these objectives. As most direct flights to the UK from Sierra Leone, Guinea, and Liberia have been discontinued because of the epidemic, passengers will be arriving from various European cities, and itineraries will need to be carefully checked to identify passengers arriving from those countries. Those who are identified will be asked to complete a questionnaire stating whether they have been in contact with sick people or have attended funerals in west Africa, and whether they have symptoms such as fever, headache, diarrhoea, or vomiting.

People who answer “yes” to any of these questions will presumably be referred to a health official, which is likely to lead to considerable delays; this would not be an incentive to fill in the form honestly. A thermal scanning device may also be used to check passengers’ temperature on arrival, but it is unclear what will happen to those found to have a fever. Most will not have Ebola. Even if testing facilities are on site, substantial delays to large numbers of passengers seem inevitable, and isolation of all passengers waiting for their test results may prove challenging.

The World Health Organization recommends that passengers on international flights out of Sierra Leone, Guinea, and Liberia should be screened for evidence of Ebola before boarding their flight. Those with symptoms or a raised temperature should not be allowed on the flight. Clearly, identifying people with Ebola before they board an international flight is a desirable objective. But how well does this system work in practice? Data are not available on the number of passengers denied entry to a flight during the current epidemic, but there are strong incentives for those wishing to fly to deny symptoms even if they have them and to take an antipyretic such as aspirin to bring down their temperature if they have a fever.

Lack of evidence

Is there any evidence that screening travellers arriving at international airports is an effective way of identifying those with serious infections? The data from Canada, which introduced airport screening during the SARS (severe acute respiratory syndrome) epidemic, are not encouraging. A total of 677 494 people arriving in Canada returned completed questionnaires, of whom 2478 answered “yes” to one or more question. A specially trained nurse referred each of these for in-depth questioning and temperature measurement; none of them had SARS. Thermal scanners were installed at six major airports. Of the 467 870 people screened, 95 were referred to a nurse for further assessment. None of them was confirmed to have a raised temperature. The cost of this unsuccessful programme was $CA17m (£9m; €12m; $15m).<sup>1</sup>

Why was this measure so ineffective, and could it work now? During the SARS epidemic a simple model was used to assess the fraction of cases that could be detected by entrance screening.<sup>2</sup> Assuming that people with symptoms are not allowed to board, entrance screening can only pick up those who develop symptoms while travelling. The longer the incubation period in relation to the flight duration, the lower the chance that this will happen, and the lower the yield from entrance screening.

Updating the model using data on Ebola (incubation time  $9.1 \pm 7.3$  days<sup>3</sup>; direct flight from Freetown to London 6.42 hours), we estimate that, if everyone with symptoms was denied boarding, about 7 out of 100 people infected with Ebola travelling to the UK would have symptoms on arrival and hence be detectable by entrance screening (95% confidence interval 3 to 13). The other 93% would enter the UK unimpeded. If passengers arriving via Paris or Brussels (journey time about 13 hours) were not screened in transit, entrance screening in the UK could detect up to 13% of infected people (95% CI 7% to 21%). The majority would still enter the UK before developing symptoms. Only if patients are allowed to fly irrespective of symptoms would entrance screening be able to detect a substantial fraction of cases (43% if there is no direct flight, 95% CI 34% to 53%).

People who know they are at risk and develop symptoms will want to seek care immediately, as they will fear for their lives. The priority should be to provide information to all those who may be at risk on how and where to seek care. This would be as effective as screening at a fraction of the cost.

Adopting the policy of “enhanced screening” gives a false sense of reassurance. Our simple calculations show that an entrance screening policy will have no meaningful effect on the risk of importing Ebola into the UK. Better use of the UK’s resources would be to immediately scale-up our presence in west Africa—building new treatment centres at a rate that outstrips the epidemic, thereby averting a looming humanitarian crisis of frightening proportions. In so doing, we would not only help the people of these affected countries but also reduce the risk of importation to the UK.

Morning all,

Listening to the radio, and Dr from WHO this am. He mentions that he is expecting more cases of Ebola in Europe in the next wks.

I know Ebola was on the emergency planning register, but are we prepared in the hospital and community.

Is the hospitals own emergency planning in place?

Would we have any problem getting any news drugs that are on the market now?

Is it worth contacting [REDACTED] in case we need to buy extra drugs etc and have a joined approach?

I am sure you have it in hand.

I take it GPs have been alerted ?

Eddie,

They made an application for the last TDF round in April but it fell far short of the information required from an applicant. [REDACTED]. To assist we appointed an account manager to them and they worked up a plan with the assistance of Jersey Business. Their application which I understand applies to next year and beyond will be considered when the panel sit next month.

It should be noted that TDF currently only has funding to 2015. The future and funding of TDF will need to be resolved early in the next administration.

For the avoidance of doubt this seems like a good event although I haven't seen the exact detail of their proposal.

Best,
Alan

I will find out the background and exactly what is happening here. I recall there were some issues with the organisers making a very late application and then not supplying supporting documentation as requested by the TDF panel?

Dear [REDACTED]

I am writing jointly to both of you as sponsor and event organiser. The 9th Jersey Marathon was tremendously successful, it sounds a bit repetitive to say the best ever however, I think it probably really was!

I think the Marathon is possibly the best community, sport, health, team and tourism building event in the calendar. Standard Chartered's sponsorship is indelibly associated with it in Jersey and of course around the world.

The scale of runners in the marathon, relay and fun run was as impressive as was the army of volunteers. You should be immensely proud of what you have achieved as I am equally for having been associated with it from almost the start.

We spoke about the 2015 Marathon and the leveraging of 2015 as the 'Year of Celebration' - Liberation 70, Island Games 2015 and the 10th Standard Chartered Jersey Marathon. I am copy in Ian Gorst as I know he undoubtedly feels as strongly as I do that 1+1+1 equals greater than the constituent parts (all of which were planned to be independently impressive).

Finally, please pass on my personal thanks to those of your teams involved as appropriate and secondly, wherever I am next Thursday you can rest assured of my continued strong support and involvement (relay only please!) to help you celebrate.

Regards, Philip

PS: [REDACTED] has already put the 2015 Marathon date in the diary; the IMF dates are 9th-11th October in Peru so all being well I will be in Jersey.

PPS: I am also copying in Ministerial colleagues at Cyril Le Marquand House on the 2nd floor - Treasury: Assistant Treasury Minister Eddie Noel and 4th floor - Assistant Chief Minister Paul Routier and Housing Minister Andrew Green.

No - I did not see the programme. Someone obviously wants to sell his book. Perhaps we should encourage people to look at the authoritative history by Dr Paul Sanders "The British Channel Islands under German Occupation" which gives a balanced account of resistance and collaboration and puts them in context. Or look at Sanders' "The Ultimate Sacrifice" which treats of the same issues. I write a foreword to both!
